THOUGHT and COMMENT

STRAW HATS

Our ambitious camera man got busy last night and snapped this picture during the parade which was put on by the Scouts as a part of their big ceremonial here.

As the parade was winding its way past the Mechanics bank Ed Downer, member of the Richmond Merchant's association, found his "new" straw bonnet cast under the feet of Dick Spierach's intrepid steed.

"Crunch" went the straw hat hopes of Uncle Ed and after that "Little" Dick was winding round in a circle while his trusty steed tried to gobble up morsels of the famous panama.

All of this because Uncle Ed had defied the decree of the Straw Hat Day committee of the Richmond Merchant's Association.

Word McRacken and Ed Schneider are wearing a sheepish look and it is said that Chief Dan Cox has found the fingerprints of both these men on the few remaining straws of the famous panama which was cast under the hoofs of the steed.

It is reported that Raymond Melin, son of Mrs. Lillian Melin of 126 Ninth street, will return to his home this week. Melin has been confined to an Oakland hospital, following a major operation.

Richmond Community Builders

CHARLES F. DONNELLY

Editors Note: This is another one of our series of sketches of public spirited men and community builders of Richmond. Our purpose is twofold—that individuals who have given their time and ability for the purpose of the community may be given recognition, and that such recognition may encourage others to think and act the part of community builders.

Contra Costa county enjoys an enviable reputation in California by reason of its coterie of intellectual giants who have identified themselves by doing things on a large scale.

Among those men who have come to know recognition and applause Charles F. Donnelly, coroner of Contra Costa county, holds a prominent and somewhat spectacular place because of his thoroughness in all his activities.

He has carried out to the last letter that famous aphorism: "I would rather be right than president."

Donnelly was born in Middleport, Iowa, and like many men who have achieved success, his early education was gained by burning the mid-night oil after the chores had been done and most youngsters were sound asleep.

In 1890 Donnelly moved to California with his parents and settled in Fresno county.

While still in his tender years he did a full-sized man's work driving a ten-mule team hauling redwood from the forest. Sometime later he became foreman for the company and had several hundred men under his guidance.

In 1905 Donnelly came to Richmond and entered the employ of the Key System Transit Co. By hard and conscientious work he has risen to the position of division superintendent at Richmond.

He knows the early struggles of Richmond as only the pioneers can know. He has watched a veritable swamp grow into a city that has taken its place among the best in the East Bay section.

In 1917 Donnelly was chairman of the Red Cross drive which netted the organization $18,000.

Feeling the urge to do bigger things he entered politics and in 1919 was elected to the office of coroner for Contra Costa county.

During his activities which span an era of seven years, he has held hundreds of inquests some that have gained national recognition.

Governor Richardson has commended highly on Donnelly's work. The Lions club speak well of Donnelly, he being past president and always ready to lend his assistance to further the interests of that body.

He is also an active member of the Richmond Elks and his name is nearly always associated with all the activities.

Donnelly's hobby is the radio. He is vice-president of Radio Station K. F. W. I. of San Francisco.

Quite frequently his voice is heard on the air by radio enthusiasts.

As a civic worker, he has supported wholeheartedly every movement that was for the good of Richmond and the county.

Donnelly's interest is centered in the upbuilding of character—clean politics—staunch government and in a word Richmond.

He is a natural lover of mankind and his daily routine displays that he is a man that is well worthy of the confidence his supporters.

VILLAGE IN HAWAII IN PATH OF HOT LAVA RIVER

Villagers Flee From Homes as River of Molten Rock Moves Down Upon Them

(By Universal Service)

HONOLULU, April 17.—A great stream of lava proceeding toward the sea from Mauna Loa tonight was heading directly toward the native village of Hoopulua.

All residents of the village tonight were in flight carrying with them such belongings as was possible.

Hoopulua is in the Cona district where already a Catholic church, several native homes, and thousands of trees have been destroyed by the lava flow.

The molten flow is expected to reach the sea tonight when the usual grand spectacle of huge clouds of steam caused by the contact of the red hot lava with the cool ocean water will take place.

Brilliant lava fountains high up on Mauna Loa were visible throughout the evening indicating continued activities of the flows at their sources.

Two flows have already crossed the belt road and a third lava river is expected to cross the same road sometime tomorrow.

Heavy damages have been done to forests and pastures.

Water District Awarded Permit For Construction

A permit was issued to the East Bay Municipal Utility District yesterday by the State Division of Water Rights for the construction of the thirty nine million dollars Mokelumne Water project.

This marks the end of a long and bitter controversy that has been fought for more than two years. This means that the Associated East Bay Cities will start work upon the project that will bring two hundred millions of gallons of water to the East Bay cities each day.

According to G. C. Pardee, former governor, three contracts have already been let. The only remaining obstacle is the receiving of a permit from the Federal Power commission. According to Pardee there is little likelihood of any trouble from that point.

Chief of the state Water Right Division, Edward Hyatt, announced the findings of the division yesterday afternoon. The question of granting the permit raised several questions of law.

Contracts for the Lancha Plana dam, which will tap the Mokelumne river 110 miles from here were let to L. S. Atkinson of Los Angeles. The dam will be forty two months under construction and will cost $3,500,000. Contracts for the tunnel, which will cost $624,000 were let to Charles and G. K. Thompson of Los Angeles, while aqueduct work east of the San Joaquin river will be handled by the firm of Twoby Brothers of San Francisco.

Bonds to the $5,000,000 have been sold of the authorized $39,000,000 bond issue.

EFFORTS MADE TO IMPEACH THE TESTIMONY OF BUTLER FAIL

"Re-Hearing" of Famous Case Fails to Indicate that Butler Made False Statements

(By Universal Service)

COURTROOM, MARINE BASE, SAN DIEGO, April 17.—Efforts of the defense to impeach the testimony of Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler failed today at the court martial trial of Col. Alexander S. Williams, marine officer accused of drunkenness by the general.

Examination of two witnesses by defense counsel failed to bring out any testimony indicating the general had "made incorrect statements on the witness stand," as the defense counsel charged at the opening of today's session.

Repeated attempts of Williams' counsel to bring from Capt. Geo. F. Stokes and Lieut. Francis Williams, aide to the general, testimony which contradicted the general's statements failed.

Another attempt of the defense to question Lieut. Williams as to whether or not he had heard that Col. Williams had "visited Tiajuana on March 6" also failed.

Tiajuana is the Mexican "vice town" fifteen miles south of San Diego.

"I heard a rumor about headquarters on March 8," the witness started his reply to the question regarding the Tiajuana visit, but he was cut short and the objection of the prosecution sustained.

Shortly before noon the board adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning, after both defense and prosecution had announced no additional testimony would be heard.

Arguments by counsel will open Monday's session.

Capt. Stokes testified Lieut. Williams had told him a short time after the general charged Williams was drunk at the fashionable Hotel del Coronado on the night of March 30.

"We are in for a hot session. General Butler says all we officers are a bunch of liars."

Objection to the testimony was (Continued on Page 8)

Defense Scores In Trial of U. S. Army Chaplain

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The defense of Captain Orville I. Clamplitt, army chaplain on trial for conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman as a result of sensational charges of intimacy made by Miss Lucille Swallow of Kansas city, scored heavily when the court martial was resumed at the Presidio today.

Additional testimony of the illicit relationship between the Swallow girl and Elmer Martin was given by W. E. Baldock, proprietor of the logging house, in Leavenworth, Kansas where the girl lived for a time.

Baldock testified that the Swallow girl and Loretta McKinney took a room in his place at a time Captain Clamplitt was visiting a soldier friend. Clamplitt met the girl, Baldock said, but neither the girl nor Clamplitt displayed an interest in each other. The chaplain was never alone with them, Baldock said.

Baldock said he was forced to order the girls to move because of their conduct and later was summoned to another hotel by the Swallow girl who told him on the telephone that if he would come over she would pay him what she owed him.

On entering the room Baldock declared he found the two girls and Elmer Martin in a compromising condition. As he was about to leave the room police entered and arrested Martin the girls and himself.

Carol E. Peeke, a newspaper man summoned by the defense testified that Miss Swallow told him that Clamplitt had never had any illicit relations with her despite her testimony to the contrary. The court martial will be resumed on Monday morning.

Thousands Greet Big Scout Ceremonial and Spectacular Parade

SPECTACULAR PARADE OF BANDS AND DRILL TEAMS ATTRACTS HUGE AUDIENCE

Visitors from all sections of the Eastbay, Northern and Central California poured into Richmond yesterday afternoon and stayed late into the night for the Richmond Pyramid No. 42 Ancient Egyptian Order of the Knights Templar, which promises to go down in the annals of Scoutdom as one of the outstanding events in its history.

The Ceremonial itself with the Grand Masters of the organization officiating took place in the Roosevelt auditorium where the candidates were initiated into the sacred mysteries of the order. The floor committee, composed of Lud Johnson, chairman, assisted by Barney Alcoholic, M. Marshall, and Dr. E. M. Whaley for weeks carefully prepared the ritual which ran smoothly through the impressive degree.

The outstanding event of the day as far as the general public was concerned was the spectacular parade which began shortly after 7:30. Long before the time scheduled for the parade to begin Macdonald avenue was packed with the crowds of spectators eager for the much-heralded spectacle.

A slight delay in the program was caused by the delay in the arrival of the San Francisco Pyramid, but soon after the arrival of the train of ten cars had arrived at the station and the parade was on its way. The neophytes had been transported to Tenth street where the other pyramids awaited their arrival. The parade was led by the Marshall, Al Paulsen and E. B. Bull started on the line of march.

Colorful and spectacular were the various pyramid bands, drill teams and drum corps. Purple, red and white feathers with white and golden tassels bobbing in the breeze flashed with the red, blue, green and yellow of the uniforms. The Nation's flag, together with the blue and white streamers and the Scout pennants added to the color of the six divisions in the line of march.

The fun side of the parade was furnished by the clowns and floats in the last division. Martin Dabovich, Jr., out-bagged Oxford with his huge Oxford bags, a flannel pipe and monstrous shoes. The "Whole Darn Family" the baby with his bottle of something, and the "Dick Spierach" the man from the "great open spaces" on his trusty saddle machine steel drawn by a man and other clowns were in the merry-making part of the parade.

The float of the Jobs Daughters with the members in their white Grecian robes added a pleasing picture to the spectacle.

The divisions of the parade were as follows:

Division One—Ed Bull, Captain. Grand officers, Mayor W. W. Scott, Ben Boorman, and the first Mason initiated in Richmond: Harry Ellis, the first Toparches of the Richmond Pyramid, the Alameda Band and the Pharaoh's Guard of Alameda Scouts.

Division Two—E. A. Hoffman, Captain. The San Francisco Pyramid, drill team, band and neophytes.

Division Three—Louis Gattinko, Captain. The Oakland Pyramid, band and drill team.

Division Four—Harley Carter, Captain. The Berkeley Pyramid with their drum corps.

Division Five—Charles Morissette, Captain. The Antioch Pyramid with their drum corps.

Division Six—Carl Alexander, Captain. The San Mateo Pyramid, with their band and thirty candidates.

Division Seven—Richmond Pyramid, with their band and candidates, followed by the floats.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the parade was composed of Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, chairman, assisted by Lud Johnson, Grand Master, and E. B. Bull, Al Paulsen, Ed Hoffman, Charles Morissette and Dan Cox.

Following the parade, the thousands of spectators who had lined the avenue swarmed to the Lincoln school grounds where a massed band concert, in which five bands took part, was held followed by a band concert by the San Mateo band. In the California Theatre, during the intermission between the first and second acts, the Pharaoh's Guard of Scouts' band of Alameda contributed to the entertainment by playing several selections.

Shortly after 9:30 dancing began at the Masonic, Bank, and Odd Fellows halls, and continued late into the night. At 10:30 dancing began at the Richmond clubhouse.

In the Roosevelt auditorium, a concert was given for the benefit of the "Scouts" ladies and those wishing to attend. Features of this entertainment were the University of California Masonic Girls' Glee club, of which Miss Irene Blaginsame is president; Chapman's Radio Melody Kings; Tenor solos by Crall, Jacobs or KEO and KFUO of Oakland; The Radio Trio of San Francisco; Eunice Healy of Richmond and Al. Jacobs of KEO. San Francisco. This entertainment preceded the dancing at the four halls.

WE NEED THE MARINE

The importance of the American marine and necessity of its maintenance in order that our trade with the world may not be discriminated against, was emphasized recently by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in an address in New York on "The Future of Our Foreign Trade."

After discussing the problem of foreign monopolies and the way to combat them through an independent supply of the monopolized commodity of our own, the secretary of commerce said:

"We need to visualize our overseas transportation sea routes which are the extensions to our own inland trade routes. There is only one protection of our commerce from discrimination and from combinations which would impose onerous freight rates. That is to maintain upon these trade routes the regular operation of very substantial shipping under the American flag."

"We will never have a real or satisfactory merchant marine until it is owned and maintained by private enterprise. The government cannot operate cheaply. It cannot avoid the interminable difficulties and wastes of bureaucracy and above all, the direct and indirect political pressures."

"Some of the lines on important trade routes are today successfully operated under the American flag by private enterprise. With the growth of the volume of trade most of the lines can I believe, be ultimately disposed of to successful private operation."

With the necessity of our maintenance of an American merchant marine every patriotic American will agree. American ships are necessary for two reasons, first that our shippers may not be discriminated against, and second for protection in case of war. Now that foreign governments have gone into the business of forming monopolies to fix prices it is all the more important that we have a merchant marine of our own. It is as easy to gouge with freight rates as with rubber, coffee and potash and our protection in this regard will be a good fleet of ocean carriers flying the American flag.

DEBTS

Secretary Mellon, speaking before the Union League Club of Philadelphia, clarified the entire foreign debt situation with simple phrases which should be understandable by all.

As he pointed out, we have become Europe's most important creditors because of the money we have loaned, and which we desire to have returned to us. We want our money. Europe is finding it hard to pay. If we ask too much we may get nothing. We cannot collect more than the debtor is able to pay.

Europe, also, it is well to remember, is more than a debtor, she is our best customer. She takes annually two and one-half billion dollars worth of our surplus commodities.

"I should rather," he said, "have solvent customers in the future, which permit me to run a profitable business, than insist upon terms of settlement which will again force my customers into bankruptcy. A business man would prefer making $100 in his business than being repaid $5 of a debt. The farmer or the laboring man would rather have a market for our surplus in Europe than save a dollar in Federal taxes."

A scientist predicts that the world will be liquidated in five million years. So what's the use for the prohibitionists to keep fighting?

THE BRITISH EVACUATE

Sir William Howe had superseded General Gage as commander-in-chief of the British forces at Boston; but the change of commanders made little difference. There was no activity until March 1776, when Washington was ready to take the offensive. At least he had the munitions and stores he had been asking, planning and waiting for through the anxious winter; and on the morning of the 5th of March a strong force of provincials were seen at work on Dorchester heights. The British were a year ago to see men and trenches on Bunker Hill.

Even the elements were with the colonists that day. A severe storm beat the waters of the bay so that it was impossible to send troops across to the attack in boats, and Washington had all the day and another night in which to complete his defense. By the next morning the British knew that the heights could not be taken without a risk and loss they could not afford. Sir William with deep chagrin, determined upon an immediate evacuation; and by the 17th he was aboard his ships, with eight thousand troops and more than a thousand loyalists, who felt they dared not remain. And to General Washington went an equipment more abundant than he could ever have hoped to see in his ill-appointed camp at Cambridge—all the stores and cannon, ammunition, muskets, small-arms, gun carriages and supplies of every kind which Sir William found himself obliged to leave behind.

The only British army in America, Scotland, where in the colonies did his Majesty's troops have a foothold. But everyone knew the struggle must grow vastly greater and more tragical before it was ended.

LESSON IN HOME DRESSMAKING

A Model that May Be Used for Sports Wear for Simple Daytime Occasions

A STUNNING little frock is this, especially adapted to development in the striped fabrics. The skirt is laid in plaits at the sides and the blouse has long shoulder seams that form kimono sleeves. The collar and sleeve bands are of plain material. Medium size requires 3 3/4 yards striped material 36 or 40 inches wide and 1 3/4 yard of lining for the blouse to which the skirt is attached.

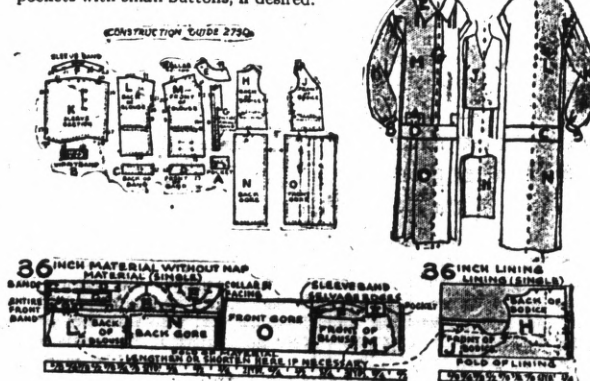

The back and front gores of the skirt and back and front of the blouse are laid along the lengthwise fold of material for correct cutting. Mark the notches and perforations carefully, then place the other parts of the pattern on the fabric as shown in the cutting guide.

Putting the dress together is merely a matter of joining seams in numerical order. First make the bodice, taking up a dart in front. Stitch ending dart at small perforation. Close underarm seam of bodice, then close the shoulder seam.

Next, take the front gore of the skirt and form backward-turning plaits, creasing on lines of medium perforations. Bring folded edges together, baste and press. Stitch along the folded edges and then join front and back gores of skirt.

Gather front gore of skirt at upper edge between the large perforation and the small one at side seam. Gather back and sew skirt to lower edge of bodice. Next, sew front band G to opening in front of blouse. Turn under extension on medium perforations to form an underfacing and fell remaining edge over the seam. Stitch band to position below the extension and leave band free above the opening in front. Sew an extension lap 3/4 inch wide, finished, to left side edge of opening and finish for closing.

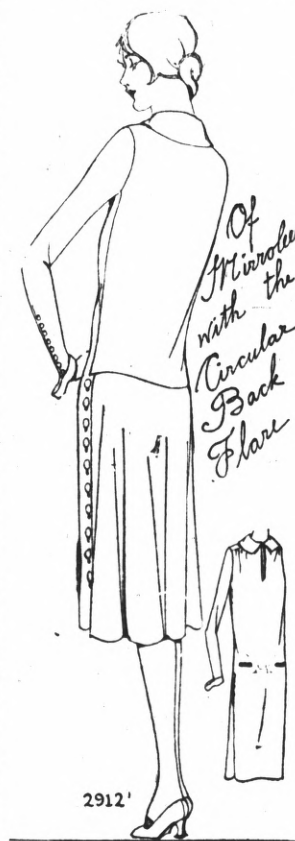

Then form backward-turning tucks in front M, creasing on small perforations. Stitch 3/4 inch from folded edges. Close underarm, sleeve and shoulder seams of blouse, in order given. Hem edge of pocket and adjust to position. Join band sections and arrange band on blouse. Face collar and sew to neck of blouse. Trim the front trimming band and pockets with small buttons, if desired.

One gratifying impression we get from modern theological discussions is that hell is not as hot as it was forty years ago.—From the Toledo Blade.

Why Girls Go Back Home

CATHARINE BRODY

Copyright 1926 by Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Clifford Dudley, matinee idol, while "touring the sticks," flirts with a remarkably pretty country girl, Marie Downey, who, as innocent as a dove, thinks that because Clifford kisses her they have thus become engaged, and naively follows him to New York. Clifford figures how to get rid of the unsophisticated girl without getting unpleasant publicity. Sally, an actress, befriends Marie, getting her a chorus job. Hearing the chorines wisecracking about Clifford, Marie stoutly defends him and states they are engaged; this announcement leaks to the newspapers.

CHAPTER V—(Continued)

"Whew!" said Sally under her breath. To do her justice, it was only a second before she was in full possession of her faculties. She continued in her most confidential manner, "Well, you see, Miss Downey's asleep, and I don't like to wake her. No, of course, I can't speak for her. Suppose you call in an hour, say."

The voice began to expostulate, to plead, to insist. Sally hunched up Marie had crept into the room, wakened by the conversation, and the two girls looked at each other, speechless, Sally with amusement and a sort of admiration, Marie without understanding.

"So you've gone and done it!" said Sally slowly. "I have to hand it to you. You've got brain in your head after all. For that's the surest way to call his bluff. Oh, boy!" She wriggled in her ecstasy.

"Oh, what have I done? Oh, Sally," cried Marie as it slowly penetrated, "did one of those girls tell me that?"

"That's a reporter, or I'll eat my hat! Go on, answer it." "I won't," wept Marie, "I don't want to talk to the hateful things." "Oh, you — All right, I'll hand him a line for you, then." "Don't you dare!" cried Marie, fiercely, starting up.

"Say," drawled Sally, and this time the temper that goes with red hair menaced from her eyes, "what do you mean, dare? I'm through I butt out. Play your own game."

Marie kept on crying. With hauteur, Sally began to dress to go out.

Just at this time, three blocks away and turn to the left, four men in conference stamped right and left across the narrow space of an office. It was the private office of Mr. Berkeley Sheridan, a producer just coming into the bright lights from a tangled career in the background, by reason of a lucky buy of "His Own."

The four men figuratively tore their hair. From time to time the switchboard outside buzzed, and from time to time the telephone girl repeated monotonously: "No, he's not in. He hasn't come in yet. I don't know when he will be in."

"Blank, blank, blank, blank," yelled Mr. Berkeley Sheridan, his usually rosy cheeks mottled with the hue of anger. He was talking to the press agent, a lanky and troubled youth, who, when things were wrong, answered to the names of Blank.

"Yes, I know," said the press agent wearily for the seventy-fourth time.

"Hell's bells, and a row of 'em," muttered Mr. Dugan, while his feet kept time to the rhythm of "Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching."

Mr. Clifford Dudley said nothing. He wore the expression of a broken man, and only fear of Mr. Sheridan's sarcasm kept him from burying his face in his hands.

"Only two nights after the show opens, Great Blank, blank, blank!" moaned Mr. Sheridan, "and our Great Lover is engaged to be married! After all the money we spent selling him to the public at the man no woman could ever get Yahi! Didja read how the papers added us about that? Yahi!

And you," turning to his press agent, "what the hell do I pay you a hundred bucks a week for? For your wise cracks? For your face?" "Well—" began the press agent feebly.

Clifford interposed. "Can't you keep lies about me from getting into the papers? What're you good for?"

TWO FOOD SALES ATTRACT MANY

Two food sales were held yesterday, each one proved a big success.

The Ladies of the G. A. R. held its sale at the Schrader's furniture store, which proved a big success.

The Ladies Guild of the St. Edmunds church had a display of funds at the Seventh street market and reported that a rushing business was done.

Funds Collected to Make the Home of Thomas Jefferson a Self Supporting National Shrine

GEORGINA WASHINGTON, WASHINGTON, April 17.—Thomas Jefferson, Father of Democracy, had his little day this week.

A group of patriotic energetic souls, longing for the day when Monticello, home of the third President, shall be self-supporting as a national shrine, has set about collecting enough money to make that possible.

And so, on the anniversary of Jefferson's birth last Tuesday, the campaign in the District of Columbia was brought to a magnificent conclusion with breakfast at the Mayflower. In the span of thirty-six months $26,000 had been raised.

The breakfast was an event that even this city of multiple and colorful meals can well put red mark around. You never saw so many important people, the ladies all in their gayest spring bonnets, as easy as the flower decorations themselves.

The tables were named for men and women who have gone down in American history for something or other. Little groups particularly interested in some long-gone or contemporary hero gathered at that table where they could be assured of congenial opinions and conversation.

Congregate table, named for the gracious first lady, was one of the most interesting. It was piled high with books and periodicals of the Jefferson period. Kind collectors are returning them to Monticello.

The speakers' list fairly bristled with dignity. The President, as it were, made one of his few public addresses, telling what he knew about the friendship that existed between Jefferson and his own countryman, Lafayette.

Senator Claude Swanson of Jefferson's state was another speaker. Others were Senator L. D. Tyson, of Tennessee, Representative Horton of New Jersey, Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of George Washington University, and Dr. William Tyler Page, veteran clerk of the House.

The list of notables eating to health of Monticello, as it were, was long and formidable. Among the guests I noted the Swiss minister and Mme. Peter, who are extremely popular in Washington Society; also the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of Agriculture who brought their wives.

Speaking of rare entertainments, there never was such another party as that given at the Mexican embassy this week in honor of the visiting Pan-American Journalists and their ladies.

It was a reception; and the place swarmed with more than a thousand diplomatic, official and society people, invited to make the South Americans welcome.

While the "line" was at its longest, the mansion was a veritable Tower of Babel. English mixed with Spanish and a half-dozen other soft tongues, and what do you think was the chief topic of conversation?

Yes, cherry blossoms—the Capital's own Japanese cherry blossoms—the sight of which nobody would think of missing at this season. Mme. Tellez, charming dark-haired wife of the Mexican Ambassador, was a hostess after one's own heart. You couldn't possibly miss her in the throng, even when she wasn't actually receiving. For she wore a gorgeous Spanish shawl, a huge thing with scarlet poppies embroidered on a bright green ground.

The milling about started at the conclusion of one of the season's unique musicals. Mme. Tellez had

ANIMAL ACT TO HEAD BILL AT THE CALIFORNIA

Manager Dan Reardon has secured the seasons greatest animal feature, presented by Fred Hall, and known as Hall Bros. Animal Circus, as a special headline attraction of the big five act bill of road show vaudeville, which comes to the California Theatre today, in conjunction with the screen feature "The Splendid Crime," starring Bebe Daniels.

Four ponies, an airdale, a goat two monkeys and a bucking mule comprise the outfit with two male assistants to put the animals through their paces.

Many drill formations by the ponies, some rope walking and balancing by the goat and an exceedingly funny exhibition of mule riding with some of the lads of the city including in the pastime are some of the highlights of the act. Both young and old will enjoy this presentation.

Giving the bill a merry start are two versatile vaudevillians the White Bros., who offer a "European Acrobatic Novelty." They do all of their work with a snap and precision that is commendable.

A young couple with good looks as a special sideline and some real talent to display in a cross-stitch singing act are Cornell and Cunningham.

"Harmony singing comedians" are the Kimball Bros. Ten minutes full of action. Both boys have excellent singing voices and a true sense of the humorous.

With Xylophone The Lamare Sisters offer operatic, popular and some of the old time melodies in a pleasing and artistic manner.

For those who enjoy a sparkling crook comedy-drama, laid against a contrasting slum and society background, tinted with romance and rich in humor and pathos, William de Mille's latest production, "The Splendid Crime," starring Bebe Daniels will fill the bill from soup to nuts.

The story, written by Mr. de Mille himself, centers about a "droll little girl crook, effectively portrayed by Miss Daniels, whose foster father, an amusing old rascal, is responsible for her brilliant tendencies. It finally occurs to her that "house-breaking" is no work for a lady, but she is forced to postpone her performance because her father and his crook companion need her help in pulling off just one more job.

As ill luck would have it, Bebe is caught by the owner whose home she enters without an invitation, but he turns out to be a youthful, happy-go-lucky millionaire, who turns her loose when she promises to go straight. How she becomes a dressmaker's apprentice, her romance with the society chap and the sensational developments that follow which lead her to commit "the splendid crime" from the largest and most

THE HOLE IN YOUR POCKETBOOK

Tell Your Dollars Where to Go, Instead of Asking Where They Went, Say Economists.

A GENERATION ago, Father still carried a pocketbook.

It may have been one that closed with a decisive "click!" Or it may have been a trick affair that opened by straightening out a little rosette of folds in the top. Its function, however, was to hold coins, and it usually discharged that function efficiently.

'Twas quite a gesture when Father took out the pocketbook. Money was about to be spent. The spending of money had about it something of the air of a rite. A dollar would really buy something, and each component part of a dollar had an appreciable and recognized value.

The pocketbooks of those days were stout, leather affairs. They didn't leak. They performed efficiently every duty of a pocketbook.

All that was before the days of the High Cost of Living—before the beginning of the hectic period which marked the beginning of the disappearance of the pocketbook. For the time came when Father's hand was always either just going into his pocket, or just coming out; when one expenditure followed so closely on the heels of another that the use of a pocketbook slowed up the machinery.

The pocketbook as we fondly knew it, the little leather receptacle for coins, had its passing. But it survived as an everyday figure of speech, one of those homely metaphors which hold their place firmly in American speech.

It Leaks!
This figurative pocketbook of ours has in recent years assumed serious import. It leaks!

With the passing of years, your $3,000 a year may rise to $12,000. By that time his friends think he is earning $20,000. Chances are his actual economic status, as translated into terms of money invested and value received for his expenditures, has not vastly improved since the days of the $3,000 salary. That leaky pocketbook again!

It is a problem that has brought forth several years of study from employers, bankers, investment houses, insurance companies and economists. It is a problem in simple arithmetic, and only one answer has been suggested—the spending of money in accordance with a deliberate plan.

Stretching the Pay Check
Nowhere has the need for planning expenditures asserted itself more eloquently than in the American home. The first of the month means bills. Can the pay check be stretched far enough to meet them? Will next month be any feast the purpose of a home budget. Above all things, it must not be a system of listing each trifling purchase when it is made. Use your checking account. Draw checks wherever possible, and transfer from the check stubs to the budget book. Draw checks for sums of cash intended for miscellaneous expenditures, and enter the lump sum. The budget book immediately becomes a daily chore, and becomes an interesting record of the business of running a home. Half an hour a week is usually sufficient to keep the right kind of budget up to date.

Trying to trace missing dollars is a painful, and often a futile process. Planned spending eliminates the agony of the post mortem, say home economists. The first step in planned spending, the first stitch in the hole in the pocketbook, is illustrated in the chart at the right.

Budget Doesn't Limit
Don't for a moment get the idea that your budget limits you. It is your income that imposes limits.

Personal Attention to Every Customer
If There Were No Electricity During Daylight Hours!
Supposing that you opened your paper and found such an announcement of curtailed service. Your mind immediately visualizes no toast for breakfast, no percolator coffee, no elevator to your office, no light in dark corners, no electric room, no thousand and one other things that make the every day life electrically comfortable.

And yet thirty short years ago when the electric art was in its infancy electric service was available only between the hours of sunset and midnight when each separate community had to have its own small electric generating plant.

Then came pioneers who were willing to risk their savings by venturing them in an untried field. The electric power company was born, transmission lines were built to join neighboring communities, and large and efficient plants were made to serve broad territories. By combining scattered and varied demands the larger plant was able to keep busy most of the time and the 24-hour day of electric convenience was made possible.

FACTS!
The cost of living is 65 per cent higher than in 1913. The cost of electricity is less than it was in 1913. Don't deny yourself electric convenience. Our Commercial Department is always at your service.

McCullough Final Rites Are Held
With the Pinole lodge of Masons conducting the service, funeral rites for Henry McCullough were held in Quinine hall at Pinole yesterday afternoon at 1:30. Cremation at the Berkeley crematory followed the services at which District Inspector J. Hughes officiated.

Pall bearers at the funeral included Philip Powlson, Robert Ingraham, I. E. Merrill, E. D. Armstrong, Ralph Robinson and Stephen Johnson.

McCullough was prominent in fraternal organizations, being a member of the Pinole lodge of Masons of which he was Master for two terms and of the Eastern Star of which he served as Patron.

That is the end!—Moore's, also, to all appearances. And it is not until the closing scenes of the picture, which takes place at Catalina Island and, incidentally, feature fifty or more of the most beautiful bathing girls you've ever seen in pictures, that Al straightens things out for all concerned by introducing Miss Halston to Mrs. Hyatt as his wife.

Work On Claremont Tunnel of the East Bay Municipal Utility District Is to Start Soon
A unique feature of the modern water distribution system to be developed by the East Bay Municipal Utility District will be the Claremont Tunnel, work on which is to start in the near future, according to Arthur P. Davis, chief engineer and general manager. Bids have been called for and will be opened on May 14 for this tunnel, one of the largest single units in the East Bay water program. The Claremont tunnel will be three and four-tenths miles long, starting from San Pablo creek, just below Orinda and continuing out at Temescal canyon near the Sacramento Short Line railroad above the Rockridge district. This tunnel will be lined with concrete. It will be shaped like a horse-shoe and will be nine feet wide and nine feet high which is a foot larger than the Lafayette and Walnut Creek tunnels.

The Claremont tunnel is the central feature in a plan whereby the San Pablo reservoir will become a huge balancing reservoir for the system. At the Oakland end there will be a cistern of buried stand pipe about thirty feet deep and twenty feet in diameter. Above this there will be a concrete building approximately thirty by forty feet which will be used as a control house and laboratory. Water will flow from the Mokelumne pipes into the tunnel at Orinda and through the chlorination plant and cistern into mains for general distribution throughout the East Bay cities. When water is not needed for distribution from that point controls will be closed, the tunnel will automatically filled with water, and the water at the other end, finding it impossible to enter, will flow back into the San Pablo reservoir.

The water, when passing into the mains from the Claremont tunnel, will thus be reaching the faucets of the East Bay consumers direct from the Lancha Plana reservoir without once having seen the light of day, except for aeration at Walnut Creek. There will be no chance for pollution in the Lancha Plana reservoir or in the aqueduct, with the result that the

The budget merely defines limits that already exist, and insures keeping within those limits in a way that causes least inconvenience and insures a maximum of comfort.

As a nation we spend over one hundred million dollars annually for chewing gum. A like amount goes for cosmetics and perfumery. Twenty-two per cent of the American income goes for luxuries and half as much into investments. One-fourth of all we earn goes into actual living costs, and fourteen per cent is classified as waste! A budget may not cut down your expenditures for luxuries. That is a matter for the individual to decide, in readjusting his standards of value. But it can and will eliminate much of the item of waste, which bulks far larger than the average total of investments.

The budget applies to the home the same principles of financing that have made big business possible. Some day you will want to trade in your old car for a new one. In a business like way, your budget will have set aside enough money to meet the extra expense. Some day Junior will be ready for his course in engineering or law or some other chosen profession and again your budget, planning in advance for that known future expense, will have solved that problem for you.

Biggest Money Maker
"Out of the great number of home budgeters with whom I have come in contact, I have never known of one who abandoned the plan after giving it a fair trial," said Winslow Russell, vice-president of Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, in a recent radio address on home economics. "It is the biggest money maker in this country today, for it sets a compound interest working for you in savings and investments, instead of against you in deficits and loans."

That is the whole story of the budget. It represents, in most cases, the difference between a deficit and a cash balance. Of course, many people who do not operate on a budget basis avoid deficits and save money. With a budget they can undoubtedly save more, and have more of the things that are really important. For the people who constantly face a deficit, however, the budget gives one inevitable answer—the red ink entries disappear, and the credit side of the ledger fattens.

It stops the hole in your pocketbook.

B. - B. SHOE STORE

720 MACDONALD AVENUE

Twenty-first street, Elsa Reinbeck, organist.

Sunday school begins promptly at 9 o'clock. Subject of the lesson in all departments except the primary. "Giving Tribute to Caesar. The Widow's Mites." These two stories embodied in one lesson forcibly teach the divine principle of separation of Church and State, and the duty of Christian giving. They are samples of the necessary and highly profitable truths that are being imparted to the children in an interesting and entertaining way Sunday after Sunday. New scholars may begin at any time.

The early services will begin at 10 o'clock.

Public worship at 11 a. m. The sermon by the pastor will have for its subject: "Man's Power to Forgive Sins." The practice of absolutism is to many a great stumbling block. Objections advance the question of the Pharisees. Who can forgive sins but God only? The pastor will endeavor to bring scriptural enlightenment in answer to the question, how can preachers who can men who are themselves sinners bring to others the forgiveness of their sins.

A friendly greeting and a sincere welcome await the stranger at all of these services.

The tree of life and the tree of knowledge of good and evil were to teach us by way of contrast; the experiment with the good does not necessitate a like experience with the bad.

At the 11 o'clock service the sermon by the pastor will be on the subject, "The Lord Both Seeks and Finds His Lost Sheep." This service will be favored with a solo by Mrs. A. B. Humphreys and special music by the church choir.

Famous old capitol building of Virginia, designed by Thomas Jefferson. The building is not only a handsome old structure, but houses many historic memories. In it was the capitol of the Confederacy during the war between the States, and the architecture for many years was considered the finest in the South. The structure stands on a plot of 12 acres in the heart of Richmond, Va., and was built in 1785-92. Tourists visiting Richmond should be sure to visit the museum at the capitol in which is the original reaper invented by McCormick in Virginia, and similar things of wonderful, historic interest.

CARDS DEFEAT BRUINS IN ANNUAL MEET

(By Universal Service)

STANFORD, April 17.—Stanford defeated California today in the Stanford stadium by a score of 68 to 62 in their annual thirty-third track and field dual. Six Stanford and California records were shattered as the two rivals battled.

Capt. Bill Richardson of Stanford, American 800 meter champion, participated in the breaking of two of the six marks. Running against his old rival Elmer Boyden of California, Richardson set a new "Big meet" 800 time of 1:53.8.

He also ran a lap of the mile relay in which the Cardinal team covered the four laps in three minutes and nineteen seconds, a new Stanford-California time for the record book.

Captain Barber of California, not to be outdone by the Stanford leader, slashed through the 100 yard dash in 9.8 seconds for another Stanford-California mark.

A fresh Pacific Coast pole vaulting star was uncovered in Hill of California who leaped across the high bar at a height of 12 feet 11 and three quarter inches for a first and a "Big Meet" record in his event.

While "Tiny" Hartrant, watched him from the judges stand Elmer Kerkin of the Blue and Gold squad broke the world's champion Stanford-California record in the discus throw. He tossed the platter for a distance of 146 feet and 9 inches.

Ted E. D. Miller of Stanford, Pacific Coast 440 yard time holder, added two more records to his collections by making a time of 48.9 in the quarter and by breaking the tape as anchor man for the Cardinal relay quartet.

Architect's Drawing of New $200,000 Spanish Bungalow Court to be Erected at Santa Cruz
SANTA CRUZ, April 17.—Ground was broken here today for a new $200,000 Spanish Bungalow Court, which is being erected on the ocean front to meet demands of year-around visitors to Santa Cruz. And will be known as the Casa del Rey Apartments.

The new court is one of the most important development projects to be started in this city, and marks another step in the expansion of Santa Cruz as a year-around playground.

The first unit of the Court will occupy about two-thirds of the block between Main and Westbrook Streets, with a 250-foot frontage on Drive Day. Directly facing the ocean, and 165 feet on Westbrook. It is planned to build another unit on the remainder of the lot.

The first unit will cover about 30,000 square feet of ground space and will be constructed in three different courts, the structure in height from one to three stories and providing a total of forty-seven apartments.

The building will follow Mediterranean architecture with the Spanish and Italian motif. It will have an exterior finish of cement plaster with red terra cotta roofing. Ornamentation of special colored tile will decorate the main tower of the structure. Entrances to two of the courts will be on the ocean side, with the entrance to the third court on Westbrook street.

Artistic designs will be used in the interior of the apartments, in order that visitors may follow their own decorative tastes in selecting their apartments. All apartments will be furnished.

TO REMODEL APT.
A permit was secured from Building Inspector E. E. Grow yesterday by E. R. Anderson yesterday to remodel his apartment building on the west side of Eleventh street between Hissell and Chansior avenue. J. Odling will do the work which is estimated to cost $1,000.

HEEDED MOTHER'S ADVICE

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 26, 1926.
For more than a year I suffered from hemorrhoids from a tumor. During this time I was treated by several physicians, all of whom agreed that an operation was the only thing that could help me. Neither my husband nor I liked the idea of the knife.
Upon the advice of my mother who, after having an operation on the right side, the wound forming a fistula which had never healed for 14 years, had found complete relief and health by drinking the Fong Wan Herbs, I decided to try them. Owing to my terrible condition and my extremely poor health, it took about six months before I was entirely well. I am now in splendid health and my old trouble have been completely vanquished.
I formerly lived at 1905 Howard street, San Francisco, but have recently removed to Oakland. My phone number is Market 6556.

Gall Bladder Troubles Gone! To Whom It May Concern: For over a year I had trouble in my gall bladder, pain on my right side, vomiting and a general rundown condition. On February 23rd of this year I had an attack of appendicitis, the pain of which was so severe that I could not sleep at night. I came to see the Chew & Chew herbarists and after taking one dose of herbs I was greatly relieved. I continued to take the herbs for a few more weeks and I am all well now. March 14, 1926. ## Efforts Made to Impeach Testimony Of Butler Fail made by Capt. Leo Henkle on the ground it was "hearsay."

Capt. Clifton Cates of defense counsel told the court-martial board that Capt. Stokes had been recalled to testify in an effort to impeach prosecution witnesses.

After a bitter legal tilt the testimony of Capt. Stokes was ordered stricken from the record.

Capt. Cates then created a sensation by questioning the witness in a fashion indicating he intended to impeach the testimony of General Butler.

Numerous questions were asked the witness, but he was not permitted to answer, the court maintaining the objections of the judge advocate, who protested the testimony was hearsay.

After several objections, Capt. Stokes testified that when he officers had been summoned to General Butler's office for questioning in regard to Col. Williams' "gin cocktail" party, Col. Ellis B. Miller had told the officers:

"If you don't look out you will all be put under oath."

The witness added Captain Cates had then said:

"What difference will that make? The general has already said we were a bunch of lars."

Captain Stokes was questioned at length by Captain Cates relating to all the circumstances of General Butler's investigation of Colonel Williams' party.

The statement, it was brought out, contradicted the testimony of General Butler and Cates had told the general that Williams was drunk. Cates contended in the written statement he had said Williams was drunk, sick or doped.

Captain Stokes testified he had been asked by Cates to "witness" the statement, not by signing his name, but by acknowledging that he had seen Cates prepare it.

Maj. J. L. Doney was called to the stand following Stokes' testimony.

Major Doney testified he did not see "anything unusual" in the condition or conduct of the accused officer at the Coronado hotel the night of March 6.

"The colonel was all right; nothing the matter with him," the major testified.

HOME LIFE IS A FACTOR IN CHILD HEALTH

There is a tendency for the responsibility for the health of school children to be shifted to health centers, clinics and school health departments. This is undesirable as the child's home life is the greatest factor in the maintenance of his health.

The Bureau of Child Hygiene of the California State Board of Health is conducting a campaign for making physically fit children who will enter school for the first time next fall. Conferences where children are given competent medical examination are being held in many parts of the state.

At these conferences the importance of the child's home life is stressed. Parents are given practical advice upon how to maintain healthful conditions in the home. General living conditions; cleanliness, airiness, sunlight and harmony in the home have much to do with the child's health.

Diet, training, recreation, medical and dental supervision and habits of living are also factors in promoting the child's health. The bureau desires to help parents in the provision of practical advice for maintaining health in the home.

The bureau believes that the health work in schools, health centers and clinics is secondary to that done in the home.

Fourteen Bids For Rodeo School

Fourteen bids have been submitted to Rodeo school board for the construction of the new Rodeo school.

The three low bids submitted included that of J. A. Bryant of San Francisco, whose figure was $67,970; R. J. Henning of Richmond, $69,600 and Wallace Sheldgrove, $69,717. The awarding of the contract will be decided upon soon.

Under-inflation Of Balloon Tires Costly to Owner

Under-inflation of a balloon tire costs the owner just 700 miles of service per point under the correct pressure, according to the results of a series of experiments by the Ford Motor company. These experiments were conducted in connection with a campaign to help Ford car owners get the most out of their tires.

To determine at just which point the Ford size balloon tires—29x4.40—yielded the maximum comfort to passengers, consistent with maximum mileage, all makes of tires were tested. At the end of the test period, the exact loss per pound of under-inflation was calculated in terms of mileage and a bulletin was sent to Ford dealers and service stations advising the correct pressure.

A number of common tire ailments were traced directly back to under-inflation. Among the most common are rim cuts, tread separation, over heating and stone bruising, in addition to a more rapid rate of natural wear and deterioration.

On the other hand, every pound of over-inflation takes its toll of comfort and fundamental value of balloon equipment is lost. Other advantages of low pressure tires, namely greater traction, ability to travel over soft ground without sinking and quick stopping without skidding, are also nullified in a direct ratio to the extent of the excessive air pressure.

The following inflation table has been proven to best combine riding comfort with long life in 29x4.40 balloon tires:

Type	Front	Rear
Roadster	27	27
Coupe	27	27
Touring Car	27	27
Tudor	27	30
Fordor	27	30
Runabout with pickup body	27	30

BIRTH CERTIFICATE

REDUCTION OF TAX LOOMS AS STUMP FEATURE

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A terrific battle over tax reductions, past and future, will be waged when the armies of democracy and republicanism come to grips on the stump this summer in the bitter fight for control of the next congress.

Some of the Democrats, at least, will demand another early cut to press business and the individual taxpayer still further from the bureau which was lightened when congress slashed $280,000,000 from the nation's tax bills in February.

Already rumbling of the impending conflict are beginning to be heard in the halls of the capitol. They will gain in volume when the primary campaigns get under way shortly.

The tax cut issue is sure to be thrust in the front in these campaigns, congressional leaders say, because every senator and representative who is fighting to retain his seat against opposition within his party will base his strongest appeals on the claim that he helped to reduce the burden.

Charges that "piece-meal tax reduction" is being handed out by the entrenched Republicans will become a democratic trump card as soon as the candidates swing into the general election campaign.

The direct charge will be made, it is indicated, that the Republicans are storing up their tax reduction bait to dangle it before the eyes of enraptured voters just before election time.

Recent phenomenal tax collections will be brought forward to support the charge.

Republicans could point out, if they took the stump today, that the treasury has a surplus of nearly $300,000,000. There has been no indication that this will be substantially diminished at the end of the fiscal year, June 30. It collections maintain their present pace, without an unexpected drain on the treasury, it will increase.

In accordance with annual custom, this surplus will be devoted at the end of the fiscal year to reducing the amount of treasury borrowings or to paying off part of the maturing public debt. Existence of the surplus, however, will be cited as evidence that further tax reduction is possible.

Moreover, unless revenues slump, the treasury will be building another surplus in the coming fiscal year, which might permit reduction of taxes without the conservative treasury policy of devoting large sums of reduction of the debt being abandoned. This was the case this year.

The Democrats, it is believed in congressional circles, will attempt to force the administration to make another tax cut the minute revenues under the new tax law have been tested sufficiently to make it feasible.

Otherwise, they will charge, the reduction will be deferred to 1925 and "sprung" shortly before the presidential election, perhaps with sufficient force and acclaim to determine the outcome of that epochal contest.

The Republicans reply, the forshadowed at the capital, will be "bunk!"

A Republican administration backed by a Republican congress, has lifted a $280,000,000 burden from the shoulders of the burdened taxpayer and this without departing from the conservative policies which have marked the conduct of the treasury under Secretary Mellon, they will assert.

Drastic economy in government enforced by President Coolidge made the reduction possible, Republicans declare. They will stake their fortunes largely on the popular appeal of this economy the resulting lower taxes, and retention of the present tariff.

With 32 senate seats to be filled and an entirely new house to be elected this fall, tax issues will have perhaps the most thorough airing they have ever received.

Rev. Lindemann to Talk On Burbank

This evening at 7:30, Rev. C. G. Lindemann, pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal church, will have for his theme "Burbank and Resurrection." The world honors Luther Burbank for the great work he has done. He has added to the wealth and enjoyment of the world by his patient untiring work in the world of plant life. He understood the nature of that life and worked in harmony with its laws. It is important to know what he believed concerning the life of the soul, hence the topic for this service. There will be special music by the choir, Mrs. Violet Williams will sing "Come

Bridge Unites North and South

Work on the great memorial bridge across the Potomac river which will unite in sentiment and reality the North and South by another great highway, has begun. At one end of the structure, in Washington, stands the Lincoln memorial. At the other end rises the beautiful old home of Robert E. Lee, "Arlington." When the bridge is completed it will lead from the Nation's memorial to Lincoln, her greatest president and idol of the North, to the home of Lee, the South's ideal and her greatest soldier and reconstructionist.

Time has gradually brought a general recognition in the South of the greatness of Lincoln, and by the North of the qualities of Lee, until both have become national figures. The top picture is that of the Lincoln Memorial, the center one of the memorial bridge, an dbelow is the picture of Arlington. The memorial bridge will take about five years to build.

Hudson-Essex Manufacturer's Production Cost Cut Down Through Elimination of Many Models

Thomas Edison, the inventor and manufacturer, once gave the following rule on how to give the best value in business.

"If I were a manufacturer, I should go over my lines to discover what the public most wanted out of what I was already making."

"If I were making five styles and found that 75 per cent of my business was done in one style (and this is usually the case) then I should manufacture two styles, certainly not more than three, and should turn my attention to making my selling price the other fellow's cost."

To which is added by J. P. Strom, Hudson-Essex dealer:

"Hudson-Essex adopted and acted on this policy long before Edison phrased it. Efforts are concentrated on the fewest number of body types in the industry. The public has followed with great interest the wonderful economies
